THE NEWS ABOUT TOWN

ITEMS OF INTEREST PICKED UP BY THE NEWS MAN.

Harvest Fair tomorrow.

Harvest supper at Pattee hall, tomorrow only twenty-five cents.

What could be more delightful than these last few October days?

Mrs. Harry Brown is visiting relatives in Boston.

The Ladies' Club will meet with Mrs. W. O. Stearns, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Susie Kendrick of Litchfield, is visiting her sister, Mrs. H. H. Bean.

The sort of supper your grandmother used to cook at Pattee Hall tomorrow.

Mrs. Alice Farwell, who has been ill for the past week, is recovering.

Several Bethel people attended the Maine Music Festival in Portland, last week.

Miss Verma Kilgore is detained at her home in Newry, being sick with the measles.

The friends of Miss Alice Billings regret to hear of her recent serious illness.

Mr. E. H. Young is having improvements made on the roof of his harness shop.

Mrs. Charles Harris of Chelsea, Mass., who has been here through the summer, returns to her home this week.

Mr. Charles Pingree's family are having a share in the measles, five cases having developed there.

Twenty-five of our citizens attended the Shumann-Henk concert in Portland last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. J. C. Billings returned from Boston last week, where she had been to visit her son and family.

Mrs. Frank Cole and sister, Miss Clara Bryant of Bryant's Pond, were guests at J. N. Swan's last Sunday.

Mr. W. A. Bunting came from Richmond, P. Q., Sunday morning to visit his family, and returned Monday evening.

The bridge over the railroad track has been closed to passage again for the past few days to allow the workmen to further widen the road bed. A large amount of work has been done on this piece of track during the past few weeks, and it is not yet near completion.

Mr. C. E. Blanchard, editor of the White Mountain Reporter of North Conway, N. H., was in Bethel last Friday and made a very pleasant call at the News office. Mr. Blanchard was in company with several others, members of his family and friends, twelve in all, who were out for a week's tour with a six horse team. They had been visiting several New Hampshire towns from whence taking in our lake region and came through Bethel on their homeward trip.

COLUMBIAN CLUB.

At the meeting of the club on Oct. 5th a plan of work was suggested for the winter which was cordially accepted, although it lies open to modification or even to a complete change of program according to the wishes of club members.

It was proposed to retain the discussion of quotations, and to extend the study of art by taking Charles H. Caffin's book, "How To Study Pictures," as a starting point. This book gives a critical survey of the methods and merits of over fifty of the most famous artists from Cimabue and Giotto to Whistler and Sargent.

Each short chapter consists of a comparison of two famous contemporary artists, often of different nationalities, and shows the effect of environment and motives upon their masterpieces.

There will be pictures to illustrate the writers' interpretations and there will be found a complete outline of art from the 13th to the 20th century, in the critical reading of this very popular book.

At the request of the club Mrs. Gehring has consented to use materials gathered from her travels in Egypt, Greece, Sicily, and Italy to act as "side-lights" of personal experience upon George Eber's famous novel, "The Egyptian Princess," which (with discussions), she will read to the club.

The club decided to avail itself for at least one year more, of the precedent of an unfilled presidential chair, the other officers remaining as elected last spring at the annual election. The list of officers is as follows:

President, (unfilled); vice-presidents, Mrs. A. L. Herrick, Miss Annie Cross; secretary, Mrs. Edwin C. Rowe; treasurer, Miss Annie M. Frye; leader, Mrs. J. G. Gehring.

The next meeting of the club will be at Mrs. Gehring's home on Friday at three p. m., October 12th. A cordial invitation is extended to all those to whom this plan appeals as a pleasant feature of the coming winter's life in our village.

HARVEST FAIR

"Oh, it sets my heart a-cickin'—
Like the tickin' of a clock,
When the frost is on the punkin
And the fodder's in the shock."

The ladies of the Methodist church will hold their annual harvest fair and supper at Pattee Hall tomorrow afternoon and evening, Oct. 18, wind and weather permitting. As usual there will be quilts, aprons, fancy articles, candy, ice cream, vegetables and fruit for sale both afternoon and evening. The harvest supper will be better than ever, for we've had a year's more experience in preparing it, and you thought it most perfect the very first year. Those "punkin" pies, "biled vittles," "inju" puddings, and lots of other eatables, will be prepared in the most delicious manner, and we know you will enjoy them. (By the way, we expect to be able to write "punkin" next year without quotation marks or apologies. It will belong to the illustrious "three hundred" of simplified words; for the plebeian way to spell "punkin" is to spell it that way, just as Mr. Riley does in the above lines. We copy them to convince you of the fact; not that we intend to use frost-bitten "punkins" for our pies.)

So then, whether you belong to this church, some other church, or no church, come tomorrow to "eat, drink, and be merry,"—merry is the best sense of the word,—social, and friendly. We will do all in our power to make it an enjoyable affair for you all. Supper only 25 cents.

A new version of an old fable. Youthful Simon met a pie-man going to the fair;

Said youthful Simon to the pie-man, "Let me taste your ware."

Said the pie-man to youthful Simon, "This you cannot buy

As from ordinary vendors, 'Tis a punkin pie."

Said youthful Simon to the pie-man, "I want it all the more,

For of every pie I've tasted The punkin I adore."

Said the pie-man to youthful Simon, "Down at the harvest fair,

Where there's pies and things a-plenty, You shall have your share."

So youthful Simon goes with the pie-man, And as he fair-ward hies,

Folks say, "There! that youthful Simon's Very, very wise."

SURVEYING HAS BEGUN.

Promoters More And More Enthusiastic As Work Goes On.

Any who may have felt or feared that the electric railroad talk would result in talk alone, and that the iron would never connect Bethel and Rumford Falls, have had a portion, at least, of their doubts removed during the past few days when work has actually been begun.

During the past week the surveyors have been busy at work surveying the route. They began at Virginia just outside the Falls, surveyed to Rumford Center, and as there was a question as to whether the track would better follow the river or take the back course from Rumford Center to Rumford Point, that division was passed over and the work taken up at Rumford Point. It was then continued practically to Bethel, last week.

As the actual surveying is done the promoters are more and more enthusiastic over the prospects of the road. The road will be an easy one to build, there being practically no grades, and the people along the line are in hearty sympathy with the movement which is really the most pleasing feature of all.

In view of the fact that all are to be more or less benefited by this road it is hoped and expected that all who are affected in any way, or interested in any way, will treat the matter kindly and cast their influence in its behalf, for in this way the road will be more easily assured and more easily a success.

Up to the present time there has been very little complaint or uneasiness on the part of any who may come in for land damages, and to any who may have felt such uneasiness it may be stated that all will have fair treatment and that the promoters have no disposition to take advantage of anyone, and it is hoped that all questions of land damage may be adjusted satisfactorily and peaceably, and certainly the management will do all in their power to make such amicable adjustment possible.

We are indeed delighted at the noticeable small amount of cold water. There are always those on hand ready to throw cold water at every enterprise which would tend to the public good and it was naturally expected that the announcement of an electric railroad between Rumford Falls and Bethel would place such people in evidence at once, but this has certainly been a case where they have been conspicuous by their quietness, for which we may all rejoice.

Yes, Bethel is at last to be on the map of electric railroads. Let us all rejoice and be glad together!

ALKALINE OR SALINE SOILS.

Not So by Nature But Lack of Rain Causes the Condition.

Alkaline and saline soils are not so by nature, but are so only because the climates in which they exist are largely dry and the rain water is not abundant enough to wash out the alkali and the salt. In the semi-arid west the evaporation is very great and a large part of the water in the soil never reaches the rivers, but is carried off into the air by the process of evaporation. The salts and alkalies of the soil have been set loose from the rocks and ledges in their slow decomposition. Were the soil water enough abundant these salts and alkalies would have been carried down into the sea. As it was, they were carried up by the soil water.

Even in humid climates there are found here and there places that are so alkaline that the ordinary farm crops cannot be raised, says Farmers' Review. The reason for this is of the same nature as in the other case, though the process of its application is a little different. The writer saw a small pond in Lake county, Illinois, round the rim of which was a strip of barren soil. This barrenness had been caused by the evaporation of the water from that pond. The secret was that the pond had no outlet deep enough to draw off its waters. When the summer days became dry and the sun hot the outlet was rendered useless by the waters of the pond having been evaporated to such an extent that the surface was lower than the outlet. The sides of the pond then acted like a lamp wick, drawing the water from the pond and evaporating it into the air. In this process all the salts in the pond and the little alkali there was passed through this earthen lampwick, and in the evaporation of the water the chemical contents of the water were left behind. While the amounts in the water were not great enough to cause barrenness, when these chemicals became concentrated in a little area of soil, they became predominant and caused the barrenness complained of. The solution of the problem was perhaps not reached by the farmer that owned the pond, but it was to lower the outlet till it would carry off the waters. Or the pond could have been dammed and the alkali soaked out and the outlet then lowered. The latter way would have removed the alkali in a much shorter time than would have been the case of the outlet had simply been lowered and the rains left to gradually wash out the alkali. But either way would have been successful and the method that took the longest time to accomplish the end would have cost the least money.

is not known that any attempts have been made to cultivate this grass, but the general characters indicate that it may possess considerable economic value as forage grass, says the Country Gentleman. It is said to be easily propagated by seeds. Its relation to quack grass would, however, counsel caution as to its cultivation.

Do Dead Forest Leaves Gather Ammonia?

A good deal of interest is being shown in the question of whether or not dead forest leaves in their process of decay gather atmospheric nitrogen. Some scientists say that they do. Some experiments made in Europe leave the matter in doubt. In seven experiments in pot culture, allowing the leaves to decay, showed no gain of nitrogen in five of the pots but a gain in the other two. The results are not positive enough to warrant a conclusion, for some unknown quantities may have entered into the trials.

Canada Thistles.
Canada Thistles are difficult to eradicate because they spread by means of underground root stalks. Cutting off the thistles repeatedly just below the surface of the ground is the best way to get rid of them, but this must be kept up. A boy with a sharp hoe can cut off many hundreds of them in an hour.

Drainage Affects Clay.
A farmer says that he had a hard piece of clay and that he was unable to produce any crops of consequence on it. He drained the place and for a year or so could see little difference. But over the drains the frosts pulverized the soil and in a few years made it arable.

FARM AND GARDEN

BLANCHING CELERY.

How Paper May Be Made to Serve the Purpose.

Blanching celery with paper is usually practiced on the early plants for the reason, says Prairie Farmer, that during hot weather there is less danger of rot. The accompanying illustration shows a plan for blanching a celery plant with tile and paper.

Blanching Celery with Paper.

As shown, the stalks are collected in a tile and wrapped in heavy paper so as to exclude the light. A stake is driven near to the plant to partially support. Any method that does not injure the plant and will exclude the light will answer the purpose.

GOOD SEED CORN.

Some of the Important Points by Which It May Be Known.

Some of the more important observations to be made in the selection of seeds are: Yield, quality, uniformity, hardness, time of ripening, freedom from attacks of smut and rust, and, in the case of small grain, the stiffness of the straw.

The corn crop requires, perhaps, as great care in the selection as any other, and merits special attention, says the Prairie Farmer. The rapid improvement that has been made in this crop, combined with the readiness with which the different varieties cross and mix, renders it extremely subject to variation. Constant care is necessary in order to establish the desirable qualities that are brought out in these variations and to more thoroughly eradicate those not desirable.

Some of the points to be observed in the selection of seed corn are:

1. The size and shape of ear; ear should approach as nearly as may be a uniform diameter from end to end.
2. Size and quality of cob, a medium sized cob being much better than a large, spongy one.
3. Depth of grain.
4. Shape of grain; grains should carry their wedge shape uniformly to the end, so that the ear may present as nearly as possible a solid surface.
5. Covering of cob; cob should be as completely and evenly covered as possible at both ends.
6. Hardness of grain, too hard and flinty a grain not being readily masticated and digested. A hard grain, also, is more liable to be a shallow one.
7. Grains of even, uniform size and similar shape, to make possible uniformity of planting.
8. Color of grain, purity of color indicating purity of the corn.

POINTS WORTH NOTING.

For late lettuce sow in partial shade. Spinach for early spring "greens" should be sown about the 10th of this month.

It is the wasp, and not the honey bee, that punctures the grape. The bees profit from the work of the wasp. Close by the side of the road is the best place for the garden, for then you will have pride in keeping it clean.

Keep a supply of early potatoes dug and at the house, so that your wife can get at them; don't let her dig them.

Keep the tomato plants off the ground. Nothing rots the fruit quicker or more surely than falling to the earth.

Weeds will keep right on growing, whether anything else in the garden does or not. Don't let a single one go to seed, though.

How is the crop of boys and girls at your house this year? Good? Glad of it! No matter whether the corn and wheat and all things go wrong, if the harvest of young folks is all right.

Bunch onions are as easy and paying crop. While they do not sell as readily as radishes they will sell well after radishes are a drug in the market. A dozen onions as large as a lead pencil make a good sized bunch.

Don't Forget.
When you finish shingling that building, don't forget and leave the boards there which you nailed on to keep yourself from slipping off. Take them off when you are through, or, later, you will be likely to find some rotten shingles under them.—Farm Journal.

Ohio's French Settlement.
One of the first settlements in Ohio was made by colonists who had no idea of overworking their muscles in the wilderness. The French dupes of an unscrupulous land company who founded Gallipolis, on the Ohio river, came to America expecting impossibilities, and they carried much of the gaiety of Paris into the forest.

Youthful Victim of Cupid.
A woman living in Rome recently found in the breast pocket of her 12-year-old son a love letter from a girl of 11. She spanked him appropriately and locked him in his room for the day. On unlocking the door she found the little chap dead, from taking a cup of poison.

Distribution of Population.
Of every 1,000 inhabitants of the globe 553 live in Asia, 242 in Europe, 111 in Africa, 32 in America, five in Oceania and the Polar regions, and only two in Australia. Asia contains more than one-half of the total population of the earth, and Europe nearly one-fourth.

Trick of Motorists.
A firm of London motor manufacturers supplies its customers with specially colored confetti, which the motorists sprinkle when running through a police trap. Drivers who follow at once read the sign and act accordingly.

Object to Tipping.
The livermen of Richmond, Va., are making much complaint against the evil of tipping their drivers. They say that whenever a driver receives a tip, he proceeds to spend it for drinks, causing him to fail to do his duty.

WOMEN WHO CHARM

HEALTH IS THE FIRST ESSENTIAL
It Helps Women to Win and Hold
Men's Admiration, Respect and Love

Woman's greatest gift is the power to inspire admiration, respect, and love. There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study. At the first indication of ill-health, painful or irregular periods, headache or backache, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin its use.

Mrs. Chas. F. Brown, Vice-President Mothers' Club, 31 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

"For nine years I dragged through a miserable existence, suffering with inflammation and female weakness and worn out with pain and weariness. One day noticed a statement by a woman suffering as I was, but who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I determined to try it. At the end of three months I was a different woman. Every one remarked about it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound built up my entire system, cured the trouble, and I felt like a new woman. I am sure it will make every suffering woman strong, well and happy, as it has me."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), displacements, inflammation or ulceration, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, or nervous prostration may be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bee Culture in Europe.
Germany is now the premier bee country of Europe—1,917,700 hives, 20,000 tons of honey per year. Spain comes next, 1,690,000 hives, 19,000 tons of honey. Austria-Hungary has third place, 1,550,000 hives, 18,000 tons of honey. It is rather surprising to learn that France's annual production of honey is only 10,000 tons. From 30,000 bee hives Greece gets yearly 1,400 tons of honey; from 111,000 hives Russia gets but 900 tons.

Dimensions of Raindrops.
A meteorologist has undertaken the laborious task of measuring the dimensions of raindrops. He finds that the largest are about one-sixth of an inch and the smallest one-seventh hundredth of an inch in diameter. They are larger in summer than in winter and larger in hot than in cold climates. The size of the drop when it reaches the earth depends on the height from which it has fallen.

MENTAL TELEGRAPH

BY ITS USE LOST PARTS OF MACHINERY WERE FOUND.

Civil Engineer Has Remarkable Experience While Building Road in India—Developed to a Wonderful Degree.

"Many persons deride the idea of mental telegraphy, but if they would spend a year or two in India, as I did, and work shoulder to shoulder with the educated East Indians they would cease their scoffing," said G. R. Scrupham, organization manager for the international policyholders' committee, and one of the most prominent electric railway men in Ohio. "It is wonderful to what a degree of perfection those people over there have developed the faculty of wireless communication without the aid of any instrument other than their sensitive brains. They were using the wireless system over there centuries before Marconi and De Forest were born."

"Let me give you an instance at point, and it is only one of many which changed me from a skeptic to a convert. Several years ago, when I was in active work as a civil engineer with railroad construction as my specialty, I went to India to assist in building a line into the interior. We came to a heading where the use of rock drills, of the tripod style you see in use here in New York in making excavations was absolutely necessary. This had been foreseen in the surveys made in advance of the construction work, and we had ordered a battery of those steam drills. Finally we worked right up to the place where we needed them, and we could not do much more effective work until we got them."

"I was in the office one day, fuming and fretting about those drills and wondering whether the steamship upon which they should have arrived had reached Calcutta and whether the drills were in her cargo. I asked one of my assistants if he had heard anything from Calcutta, which was many miles away. He replied in the negative. He had not even received advice that the steamship had arrived. I was turning away in discontent when one of the East Indians who had been assigned by the government to assist us, stepped forward. He was educated highly and spoke English fluently."

"Excuse me," he said, "were you asking if the steamship had arrived?" "Yes—we are expecting several steam drills on her and cannot do much more work until we get them," I replied.

"She arrived this morning and the drills have been unloaded from her," said the East Indian. "They are on the pier now, but something seems to be missing from them. Are they funny looking things that stand on three legs?"

"I told him they were and showed to him a picture of one of the drills. He looked at it carefully and then replied:

"Yes; they're what are in those long packages on the pier, but that part is missing from each of them." "He indicated an essential part in the body of the drill as that which was missing from each. At first I was inclined to regard what he said as a joke, but his seriousness impressed me. I instructed the operator to wire to Calcutta and ascertain what the condition was. In a little while he received a reply which corroborated everything the East Indian had told me, and, worst of all, that when the cases were opened it was discovered the parts were missing. That meant long delay, because the drills were worthless without the missing parts. In my dilemma I called the East Indian to me and said:

"Can you tell me whether those missing parts were shipped with the drills?"

"Without hesitation he replied: "Yes; but they have not been taken from the ship."

"Where are they?" I inquired. "They are away down in the hold, beneath a lot of heavy boxes which are going to be taken to another port," he said, with perfectly serious face.

"I summoned the telegraph operator and instructed him to wire our representative in Calcutta what the East Indian had told me. With that information I gave instructions that the boxes in the hold should be removed and the missing drill parts got from beneath them. Within three hours I received a return message that my orders had been carried out and that the missing parts had been found exactly where the East Indian said they were concealed. In a few days thereafter the drills reached us and were put at work cutting into the rock in the heading. After that experience, and others like it, do you wonder that I believe in mental telegraphy as it is practiced in India by the educated East Indians?"

Safe From Serious Consequences.
"It's just scandalous the way the bearded lady is loadin' herself with booze these days," remarked the wild man from Borneo. "I should think he'd be afraid o' delirium tremens." "Oh, no, he considers himself safe," replied the living skeleton; "he's married to the snake charmer, you know."—Philadelphia Press.

THE

Pleasant Evening Novels—A Column

How often is a fine nature a really good disposition spoiled by omission of a few timely words of encouragement. A child receiving blame and constant scolding in time becomes deaf to correction and defiant, and in the case of those children who neither heed nor are occasionally encouraged, is pleasing himself and consequently is pleased with himself and urged to repetitions to gain a repetition of praise so dear to the human heart that heart young or old.

Some men are too busy to give time to their wives and children. They have home early in the morning away all day, and come back at night with worldly cares, more uncommunicative. If it is even suggested to them that they are wrong, they justify themselves by saying that it is necessary to make a living, and that this is no time for other things. The plea is without foundation. It is not merely a comfortable that they are seeking after but a stimulation of needless wealth. A man who is too busy to be a man in his manners and a Christian in his spirit within the circle of home is busier than he ought to be.

Wandering Boy.

"Oh where is my wandering boy?" has been sung thousands of times with wonderful tenderness, but how many of the singers, ever gave heed to the earnest inquiry of the song? Still frequently published showing great majority of our boys spend their nights away from the bosom of home. As they grow into manhood they stray into the world and worldly pleasures. The singer's plaintive question is answered publicly in any of the streets where the song is sung would cause a tremendous sorrow and many a heart would bow down in pain. For some reason is just as well that the nightingale of the "hoys" are not specifically mentioned in local public meetings, the matter is one of common knowledge. The boys are too often out of the church and Sunday school of organizations of moral character and into the world "for all worth."

Have Some Enjoyment.

How much better to use some good things of life as we go along than to make our homes as cheerful as possible now. Do not today, either body, mind or soul, bring that poverty will knock at your door tomorrow. Don't hoard scrip through all the best years of your life that you may be generous to your will. Life is uncertain, and better to make your children while they are under the home. Call to that home every agency will make their lives sweeter and for, than to deny them these things may leave them a large account you are gone. It will be too late to return kindness to you. Don't keep the parlor shut up and in the kitchen, unless you want boys and girls to be anxious to you. Don't think they must be anywhere but to Sunday school prayer meeting; remember your young ones yourself. Do not ask to walk two miles to a singing lecture after working hard all when there are two or three how your barn that would enjoy the such as they. For God's sake them you think as much of the you do of your beasts if not more. Take time to enjoy the society of your children; it will only few years at the best that they will with you, and these ought to be of happiness to both you and them. Would you not rather have them back when out in the world to blessed home (though it may not been a mansion) where they receive more joy and comfort than they can afford, than to have them return home in a week and hardly return your burial? If we are ever happy in this life we must enjoy what every brings. We should be grateful for all the good that comes our lives, and patiently bear our believing that all things if rightly will fit us for the enjoyment of happiness hereafter.

Home.

Too many of us are looking for to happiness in the future years instead of getting all the enjoyment sible out of the present. It is wo remember that the time never comes, in this world, when we shall everything we want just where when we want it. The only way to happy is to enjoy all we have to at least as we go along. THE HOME CIRCLE.

Pleasant Evening Recreations—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Time.

How often is a fine nature warped, a really good disposition spoiled by the omission of a few timely words of encouragement. A child receiving nothing but blame and constant scolding, in time becomes deaf to correction, sullen and defiant, and in the end one of those children who neither hears nor heeds. On the other hand a child that is occasionally encouraged, is proud of pleasing another, consequently is pleased with himself and urged to renew exertions to gain a repetition of that praise so dear to the human heart, be that heart young or old.

Some men are too busy to give any time to their wives and children. They leave home early in the morning, stay away all day, and come back at night filled with worldly cares, morose and uncommunicative. If it is ever suggested to them that they are doing wrong, they justify themselves on the ground that it is necessary for them to make a living, and that this leaves them no time for other things. Usually the plea is without foundation, for it is not merely a comfortable living that they are seeking after but the accumulation of needless wealth. Any man who is too busy to be a gentleman in his manners and a Christian in his spirit within the circle of his own home is busier than he ought to be.

Take time to enjoy the society of your friends, especially the companionship of your children; it will only be a few years at the best that they will be with you, and these ought to be years of happiness to both you and them. Would you not rather have them look back when out in the world to that blessed home (though it may not have been a mansion) where they received more joy and comfort than the world can afford, than to have them forget home in a week and hardly return to your burial? If we are ever happy in this life we must enjoy what every day brings. We should be grateful and glad for all the good that comes into our lives, and patiently bear our trials, believing that all things if rightly used will fit us for the enjoyment of perfect happiness hereafter.

Home.

Too many of us are looking forward to happiness in the future years instead of getting all the enjoyment possible out of the present. It is well to remember that the time never will come, in this world, when we shall have everything we want just where and when we want it. The only way to be happy is to enjoy all we have to the utmost as we go along. It is right to lay up for old age in youth; right to prepare for a rainy day, but it is not right to bend all our energies to this end and put off until the future the happiness we might enjoy every day. It is very common to see people working and saving, denying themselves all recreation and many comforts, to lay up money to buy more land, to enlarge their stock (to save for their children) thinking that when they have accumulated this they will be happy and begin to take comfort. The hoped for point may never be attained, or if it is, sickness or death may have come first and the dear ones whom we expected to be happy with may be gone forever.

Go Home, Boys.

Boys, don't hang around the corner of the streets. If you have anything to do, do it promptly, right off, then go home. Home is the place for boys. About the street corners and at the stables they learn to talk slang, and they learn to swear, to smoke tobacco and to do many other things which they ought not to do.

Do your business and then go home. If your business is play, play and make a business of it. We like to see boys play good, earnest, healthy games. If we were the town council we would give the boys a good, spacious playground. It would have plenty of green grass and trees and fountains, and broad space to run and jump and play suitable games in. We would make it pleasant, as lovely as it could be, and we would give it to the boys to play in, and when the game was ended we would tell them to go home.

MERITS OF THE APPLE.

Has Medicinal Qualities of the Greatest Value.

A good ripe, raw apple is one of the easiest of vegetable substances for the stomach to deal with; the entire process of digestion being accomplished in 35 minutes. There are medicinal properties in the acid of the apple that are not found anywhere else, according to hygienic analysis. These acids are of great value for people of sedentary habits, whose livers are sluggish, serving as they do to eliminate from the body noxious matters that retained make the brain heavy and dull or bring on jaundice and skin eruptions.

The apple also contains a larger percentage of phosphorus than any other fruit or vegetable, and this is admirably adapted for renewing the essential nervous matter of the brain and spinal cord. It is perhaps for this reason, though but rudely understood, that the old Scandinavian traditions represented the apple as the food of the gods who, feeling themselves to be growing feeble or old, resorted to this fruit to renew their powers of body or mind. The custom of eating apple sauce with roast pork, goose and like dishes has sound hygienic reason behind it, the malic acid of ripe apples, either raw or cooked, serving to neutralize any excess of chalky matter engendered by eating over-rich meats.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

When making a pudding do not forget to make a plait in the cloth at the top, so as to allow the pudding to swell.

If the upper inside edge of the pan is well greased with butter, chocolate, milk, cocoa, or anything of the kind, it will not boil over.

To revive black velvet hats or toques, well sponge the hat or toque with a small quantity of paraffin, then thoroughly brush and leave in the open air for a few moments; this will quickly remove all smell, and cleaned in this way velvet will look equal to new.

When jewelry is put away it is apt to become dull and tarnished. At intervals the articles should be taken from their cotton cases and cleaned in clear soapsuds, using fine toilet soap. Dip them into this and dry them by using a soft brush or a fine sponge, and afterward dry them with old handkerchiefs, and, lastly, with a soft leather. Silver ornaments may be kept in arrowroot, and steel articles will retain their luster if stored in a box containing a little starch.

A soiled black coat can be quickly cleaned by applying with a sponge strong coffee containing a few drops of ammonia. Finish by rubbing with a piece of colored woolen cloth.

A Good Housekeeper.

The successful housekeeper is not essentially the one who has a spotlessly-kept house, always in order, but the one who manages the affairs of the house so that every one is made comfortable and the home is always cheery and bright. A good housekeeper does not worry over every little detail that goes wrong, but sets to work to put it in order again. She can always tell you where everything is to be found, as she always has a certain place for certain articles, and sees that they are kept there. The meals are always just on time and well cooked, and the children look neat and happy. This can not be done without good management, says Woman's Life, and the methodical housekeeper will have the day divided out for the different duties that are to be done and she will see that her system of arranging the work does not cause discomfort in the house.

WOMEN AND MEALS

HER HARD TASK IT IS TO FEED THE HUMAN RACE.

Small Wonder That Sometimes the Presiding Genius of the Kitchen Tires of Her Seemingly Never Ending Labors.

When men suppose that dinner goes on whether they are at home or not they labor under a curious misconception. Arthur Pendenys, writing about this melancholy fact, declares: "Some one once said that an ordinary woman's favorite dinner is an egg in a drawing room. All women have a passion for something on a tray. To the masculine mind things on a tray are unsatisfying; but to the feminine body they embody the very manna from heaven." It is easy to understand that Arthur Pendenys or any other "masculine mind" might have trouble in comprehending the why and wherefore of this debilitated taste; but no woman would be at a loss to explain it. It comes from the fatigue which woman suffers as the result of her colossal task of feeding men. To nourish the human race is the appointed work of woman. At the very inception of life this is her labor, and never can existence be so fine, so free, so heroic or so beautiful that she must not pause three times a day—or more—to bend her mind to the menu that shall please her lord. She has been accused of writing no epics; it is said that she is incapable of composing an oratorio, of designing a cathedral or conceiving an heroic statue or painting a picture of the first quality. The report is that she might have done something of the kind if the men had not been hungry so frequently and so insistently. To be the nourisher of the human race is an undertaking so prodigious that it is a marvel that the mere exasperation of being chained to the ladder has not made fends or lunatics out of women—and from squaw to countless their sufferings in this regard have points of similarity. Is it any wonder then that with the ever-hungry man out of the way the woman seeks escape from the tyranny of food and "eats strawberries by moonlight on a flowery bank?"—The Reader.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

To use bacon fat clearly the fat by pouring boiling water on it. This will be found to be far better than lard or butter for pastry making.

Certain lamps, irrespective of the amount of care bestowed upon them in the way of cleaning, always seem to burn dimly. This may be remedied by dropping small pieces of camphor into the bowl with the oil.

When velvet becomes crushed from pressure hold the parts over a basin of hot water, with the lining of the garment next the water; then shake well, and the pile of velvet will have risen.

Cake tins, patty pans, etc., are easily cleaned by boiling. Put them in a saucepan with some soap extract and water, boil them for about an hour, and they will be found clean and new-looking. Soap and soda, or borax may be used instead of soap extract, if preferred.

When washing a new blanket for the first time, begin by soaking it for 12 hours in cold water, then rinse in clear water. This will remove the sulphur used in the bleaching. After this wash the blanket in lukewarm lather made of boiled soap and water. Rinse well in clear water, shake thoroughly and hang out to dry.

Lillian Russell Sandwich.

Miss Lillian Russell is the inventor of one of those between-meal delicacies, which, if the laudatory remarks of her friends are to be depended upon, is both unique and tasty. To make this delicacy—for "delicacy" is the term that is applied to it by all who have eaten it—one must take an equal amount of cold boiled chicken and cold boiled tongue, the meat of a dozen olives and six hard-boiled eggs. Mix all these ingredients together and chop them as fine as possible. When they have attained almost the consistency of a powder they must be worked into a paste by the addition of a mayonnaise dressing, after which the mixture is ready to be spread upon thinly sliced buttered bread.

For a Tough Steak.

To make a tough steak tender spread the steak with olive oil instead of heating it to bruise the fibers, which lets the juice run out into the fire. Let it remain an hour or so before cooking. Broil quickly so that each side will be thoroughly seared, then prop up your broiler so as to be a little farther from the fire, for the slower heating through. That cooks the inside juices without losing them. Melt a small piece of butter in two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and pour it over the steak while hot. This makes an appetizing gravy. Lemon juice can be used instead of vinegar, if preferred.

Rugs from Old Carpeting.

After a house cleaning the housewife is often confronted with a heap of old carpeting. Some may be fairly good, some much worn, some ingrained, and some Brussels, and she is at her wits' ends to know what to do with it. It is a surprise to many to know that this mass of unsightly material can be made into really beautiful rugs. The wavers understand mixing them in such a way that the most unlikely combinations come out very well.

REACH THE SPOT.

To cure an aching back,
The pains of rheumatism,
The tired-out feelings,
You must reach the spot—get at the cause.

In most cases 'tis the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys.

Charles Bierbach, stone contractor, living at 2825 Chestnut St., Erie, Pa., says: "For two years I had kidney trouble, and there was such a severe pain through my loins and limbs that I could not stoop or straighten up without great pain, bad difficulty in getting about and was unable to rest at night, arising in the morning tired and worn out. The kidney secretions were irregular and deposited a heavy sediment. Doctors treated me for rheumatism, but failed to help me. I lost all confidence in medicine, but Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me so quickly and so thoroughly that I gladly made a statement to that effect for publication. This was in 1898, and during the six years which have elapsed I have never known Doan's Kidney Pills to fail."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Bierbach will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-McBurn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price, 50 cents per box.

Camel Most Useful Animal.
A camel begins work at four years old, and frequently continues in use for over half a century. It will carry 1,000 pounds on its back, while few horses can carry more than 250 pounds.

Palladium in Commerce.
Palladium has about the same degree of hardness as platinum. It may be easily rolled into sheets, and it is usually found in commerce as thin sheets or foil.

Takes Name of Son.

Among the Arabs of Syria a man changes his name after the birth of his first son. He calls himself by his son's name, with the prefix "Abu," or "Father."

Good Done by White Ants.

Natives of the east coast of Africa do not object to the presence of the great white ant colonies in their neighborhood. The ants exercise great fertilizing power on the crops.

Bad Habit of Poor Men.

Senator Elkins has observed that poor men whistle more than rich men do. With this one exception poor men are just as companionable as rich men.

New York City's Fire Losses.
New York city has to bear about one-third of the entire fire loss of the United States and Canada.

Fine Plate of British Peer.
The marquis of Breadalbane possesses the finest service of gold plate in Great Britain.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 17, 1906.

The talk of depreciation of land values will not effect any scare in Maine, nor any other place where the soil will produce sustenance for man and beast.

The learned discussions indulged in by some of the trade and financial journals, regarding the probable hard times and panic, are, when reduced to the essence of the thing, nothing but explanations of how certain eliques may disturb the natural prosperity of the country, by schemes, that will, if successful, enrich the schemers and impoverish the honest business men.

A SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

A petition for incorporation, signed by citizens of Bethel has been posted, calling for a meeting in Pattee's Hall on Monday evening, Oct. 22, to organize a corporation which shall have for its purpose the construction of a soldiers' monument or memorial building in Bethel.

Long since has a more worthy purpose summoned the citizens of Bethel to action. No town in Maine ever sent braver, truer men to the front in sacrifice for their country's cause than did Bethel, and certainly in return for the price at which they purchased our country's freedom, we owe them, at least, a lasting memorial.

Let all who are, or ought to be in any way interested attend the meeting in Pattee's Hall next Monday night.

SUNDAY SHOOTING.

A few weeks ago we suggested that it would be well for some of our people to pay a little better heed to the law making Sunday close time on hunting, but either some did not see our word of warning or did not choose to heed it, for it seems that certain ones are determined to do their hunting and shooting on Sunday, very much to the disapproval of those who enjoy hunting, but have respect enough for law and decency to do their hunting on week days.

What needs to be done, and what will be done is to make an example of a few of those who persist in doing as they please regardless of law and order and then the Sunday hunters will be less conspicuous for a time.

SCARCITY OF CARS.

The scarcity of freight cars in which to ship Aroostook potatoes to market, as reported in the press of the state, sounds very much like the reports from the west, not long ago, regarding the inability of certain independent producers and dealers to get cars in which to ship their goods.

The cause of this apparent shortage of cars was traced to the famous, or infamous, "Gentlemen's Agreement" elique, who connived with the railroad companies to prevent the independent operators from getting their goods to market.

It does not seem possible that there can be any scheme of the kind afoot in this state; yet the story of a scarcity of cars has such a familiar tone that one is compelled to sit up and look, and think who would benefit by a shortage of cars wherewith to get Aroostook potatoes to market. That there are not freight cars enough for the work is not very probable in the opinion of the writer. It may be that incompetent management may not have them available.

SOUTH PARIS.

Sunday, Oct. 14th, was observed as Rally Day at the Universalist Sunday school.

A CHILD WITH GRAMPS

should have immediate attention, as gramps are positive proof that there is some foreign substance in the stomach or bowels that nature cannot get rid of unassisted, and in most cases the trouble proves to be worms. Worms are the cause, either directly or indirectly, of the majority of childhood ills, and in a great many cases adults are also sufferers.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

the only safe, sure, entirely vegetable worm remedy ever compounded, has been working wonderful cures for over half a century, and stands without a peer in all complaints of the stomach, liver or bowels—especially constipation and worms. The familiar symptoms of worms are disturbed health, deranged stomach, furred tongue, variable appetite and bowels, increased thirst, itching of the nostrils, bed-wetting, wind-colic, irritability, restlessness, grinding of teeth, slow fever and often in children, convulsions.

When any of these symptoms are noticed, do not delay, but give Dr. True's Elixir at once and restore the patient to perfect, robust health. A few drops of the Elixir taken occasionally will guard against worms, and if present will expel them.

Sold by all dealers, 50c, 50c, $1.00. Write for free booklet, "Children and Their Diseases." DR. J. F. TRUE & CO., Auburn, Me. Established 1851. Special treatment for tapeworms. Free pamphlet.

MEXICO.

MEN ENJOY BANQUET IN CONGREGATIONAL VESTRY.

One of the most thoroughly enjoyable social events that has taken place this fall, was the banquet given in the Congregational vestry, Tuesday evening, Oct. 2, to the men of the parish. The tables were arranged in the form of a cross with a large center piece of richly hued autumn leaves, and with the silver, china and daintily arranged food, made a very pretty sight.

Thirty-seven men took their places around the tables with Rev. J. G. Fisher at the head of the table as host of the evening. The familiar words:—

Blest be the tie that binds

Our hearts in Christian love

The fellowship of kindred minds

Is like that above

were sung, followed by a benediction by Rev. Mr. Fisher. An excellent menu was served by a committee of six of the ladies of the church.

A schoolmaster asked a small nephew the other day the meaning of "The quick or the dead." "Please, sir," he said, "the man as 'gots out of the way of the motor car is quick, and 'im as doesn't is dead."—London Tribune.

A motion was made by Mr. Fisher, and heartily seconded, that the ladies should be seated at one of the tables and be waited upon by some of the gentlemen, in order that they might enjoy the speeches that followed the banquet.

Every one of the thirty-seven men did his share in entertaining, some of the speakers being Mr. Fisher, Henry W. Park, Sr., H. J. Reynolds, Edwin H. Gleason, Leon M. Small, M. C. McLeod, Bert Goodwin, Wm. Davis, Mr. Robertson, Dr. Binford, Wallace C. Stevens, Leon Reynolds, A. B. Parsons, W. L. Wescott and Dr. R. O. Waite. Mr. Holmes read several times and was listened to with a great deal of pleasure by his audience.

The evening was a very merry one because of the many humorous stories and anecdotes told, and a very beneficial one as well, for it brought the men of the parish into closer touch with each other.

At the men's banquet given this spring the men voted to grade and seed the church lawn and have cement walks laid. Every man has helped in the movement and the work is nearly completed.

Henry W. Park, who is interested in making Mexico the best town possible, moved that, after hearing a report of the work done and the expenses incurred, the hat should be passed for contributions toward paying for the improvements made around the church, Mexico's most attractive "show" building.

W. L. Wescott made a report of the work that had been accomplished since the last banquet and said that the entire expense was approximately $20.00. The men contributed liberally and a good share of the money was raised.

These banquets are so much enjoyed and appreciated by the men, that they voted to have several more this winter, and at the third one to have an after dinner speaker for the occasion.

Much of the success of these social evenings is due to Mr. Fisher, who is very zealous in striving for the best in everything, and if Mr. Fisher plans a banquet for the men of this parish, you may be sure that it will be the best banquet possible. The hearty support of the men in this social movement is very commendable, and these banquets are going down on Mexico's calendar as red letter events.

John Howard is in Canton Point on business connected with the establishment of a saw mill in which he owns a half interest. The other members of the firm are Lovejoy & Jenney of Roxbury. The company has recently purchased the pine on the McCollister farm and the mill is to be erected there.

Mr. Frost has moved his family from the Keene house on Granite street.

Alec Hutchins, who has been employed in Record's foundry, has gone to Rhode Island, where he has an excellent position. His family will follow him later.

Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Crockett and son, Norman, of Paris were guests of J. E. Henry last week.

Mrs. Wallace Donnell, who has been quite ill for several weeks, is able to be out again.

Everett Braden and Victor Binford were hunting along Swift River last Monday.

C. H. Adams and wife of Norway, who have been visiting at H. D. Abbott's, have returned to their home.

Mrs. P. C. Hoyt has been quite poorly for the past week, but is better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. William Holman entertained Mr. and Mrs. Jordan from Hanover, during the fair.

O. W. Pressey went to Norway one day last week and purchased a heavy pair of horses to put in the woods.

Mrs. Mary Goodridge and friend, Mrs. Kidder from Biddeford, visited at Lon Holt's and attended the fair at Andover last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barrett were called to the village early Sunday morning on account of the death of their little grandson.

Mrs. Nellie Page and daughter from New Hampshire, are visiting Mrs. Page's father, Mr. O. A. Gordon, for a few weeks.

We are glad to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Joel Morrill, who have been quite ill, are gaining now.

The ladies of the Universalist Society will have a harvest supper at their vestry, Oct. 23rd. Supper from six to eight.

Mrs. Hattie Chase has returned to her home at West Peru.

A Nation of Cripples
Rheumatism Beyond
Control

The Only Hope to Rheumatism
Suffers is Uric-O Treatment.

If rheumatism continues to spread as it has in the past few years, it would seem as though we would before long become a nation of cripples. The terrible destructiveness of this disease is apparent on every side of us. Almost nine out of ten of the cripples one meets had their affliction brought on by Rheumatism. How many thousands more there are that are hopelessly bed-ridden and whom we never see! Rheumatism from the very nature of the disease, can never cure itself and if neglected, is bound to grow worse rather than better. If you ever have any twinges of Rheumatism go to W. E. Bosserman's drug store right here in Bethel and get a bottle of Uric-O, the wonderful new Rheumatic Specific. It will cure you and it is the only treatment in the world that will cure you permanently and thoroughly. Uric-O cures by its direct action on the muscles, blood and kidneys. It seeks out the poisonous Uric and Rheumatic Acid and drives it from the system and it is only a treatment of such a nature that will ever cure Rheumatism. Injections and plasters only serve to drive it from one spot to another. They never cure Rheumatism, because it is primarily a blood disease, and until the blood is cleared from the poison, a cure cannot take place.

There never was a case of Rheumatism that Uric-O could not cure and you should not put off taking it because it is in the end by the cheapest method. You can test Uric-O free of charge if you wish. Just cut out this advertisement and send it to the Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y., and state that you have never used Uric-O and would like to try it. They will send you a free sample which you can test and try free of charge.

ONE GREAT ROUTE.

5,000-MILE PAN-AMERICAN RAIL
ROAD IN SIGHT.

Immense Project Long Planned Has Now Actually Been Commenced—
Money to Complete It Is Arranged For.

Another link is in sight for the 5,000-mile Pan-American railroad which will some day enable a citizen of Alaska to make a coast-to-coast journey through zone.

Is it a dream of enthusiasm? Then must hard-headed bankers of New York have suddenly become overenthusiastic in supplying $15,000,000 of capital, and the president of Bolivia quite lost his wits when the other day he started with so much pomp the building of the new railway lines in his country, says the New York Tribune.

Speyer & Co. and the National City bank, never accused of overenthusiasm before, are the capitalists. They agree to supply another $10,000,000, if necessary, and the Bolivian government promises to make repayment within 25 years from date. More than $10,000,000 is to be provided for railways by the people who name themselves after El Libertador Simon Bolivar, making the total about $37,500,000.

It is true that this money will be largely used on the lines of a general system of internal railway development, yet Bolivia will be bisected by a trunk road from Peru, on the north, to Argentina on the south, following the surveyed route of the Pan-American scheme. The main line of this trunk will be 450 miles long, adding 264 miles to the existing but inadequate and probably to be superseded route of the narrow gauge Antofagasta railroad. All internal lines projected total a distance of nearly 1,000 miles, about five times the length of those existing. They include Viacha to Porto Pando, 201 miles; Viacha to Oruro, 138 miles; Oruro to Potosi, 165 miles; Oruro to Cochabamba, 128 miles; and Oruro to Tupiza, 126 miles. From two to ten years is estimated as the time necessary to complete the various sections.

Of the 15 republics that are co-operating to startle with the locomotive whistle the condor sailing over Andean abysses and to compete with llama, donkey and Indian as freight carriers, Bolivia and Peru are now showing the greatest activity. The dizzy engineering feats of climbing the higher mountains of the world, enlarging the gold bearing Inca's trail along precipices, tunneling through impassable rock walls and shutting back and forth on steel spans across tortuous chasms never passed by man, have already been accomplished with large success in Peru. The pioneer genius of Henry Meigs has its monuments.

It inspires a poet to think of the snow-clad peaks rising four miles in air. It makes a railway traffic manager rub his hands when he considers the present llama-donkey-Indian style of transportation at a minimum cost of 20 cents a ton a mile. Moreover, a railway runs at the same speed and at equal cost in both directions. What will happen to the old-established water routes of South America, that take twice as long and double cost to go upstream? It takes two weeks to float a cargo of rubber, gold or coffee 1,810 miles down the Madeira river, but a month for boats to go up. And in the dry season, when the river runs low, traffic is at a standstill.

The Pan-American line, as starting from the present Mexican railroad terminus at Ayutla, the northern boundary of Guatemala, and extending to the river Qualea, of the boundary between Bolivia and Argentina (whence existing lines run south and east), it is estimated will cost $200,000,000. Mileage and cost are surpassed by single systems in this country, it is pointed out. Some engineers, thinking of gulfs and heights to conquer, have deemed the average estimate of $40,000 a mile optimistic. Yet the actual cost of a road from Lake Titicaca, the inland sea of South America, corresponding to Balkan in Siberia, to Bolivia's capital city, La Paz, has proved to be only $15,000 a mile. This line begins to run along the great central plateau of Bolivia, a prairie 12,000 feet above the sea, and misty with clouds, yet surmounted by the lordly peaks, more than four miles high, of the Illimani Cordilliers. On this majestic plain the present main line is to be built. Here the engineering difficulties are practically nil, and there is no fear of encountering such a chutera as the moving mountain that lately baffled the builders of an Argentine railroad. The mountain is a great cone of mud, that changes its shape when the river Medio freis in the rainy season. A steel span 820 feet long is believed to have conquered the unstable toe.

When "Booking" Meant "Booking."

A railway clerk will nowadays "book" 800 passengers an hour; formerly when he had really to book them, to write their names in a book, he would have thought the 800 a good day's work. The saving of labor has been enormous, and unlike most inventions, the ticket remains much as it was at first. It is still numbered and dated, as it was then, and its only changes have been in color and the words printed on it.—London Answers.

CHAPTER XII.

A TICKLISH BUSINESS.

Pierre was fierce and fat and 40, but he could cook the most wonderful roasts and ragouts that Warburton ever tasted; and he could take a handful of vegetables and an insignificant bone and make a soup that would have tickled the palate of a Lucullus. Warburton presented himself at the kitchen door.

"Ah!" said Pierre, striking a dramatic pose, a ladle in one hand and a pan in the other. "So you are zee new groom? Good! We make a butter of you? Bah! Do you know zee difference between a broth and a soup?"

The new groom gravely admitted that he did.

"Here to me!"—and Pierre struck his chest with a ladle. "I teach you how to saive; I, Pierre Flageot, will teach a hostler to be a butler! Bah!"

"Idiot! Imbecile! Non, non! These way. You would put zee thumb in zee soup. Zare! You haf catch zat. Come to zee dining-hall. I show you. I explain."

The new groom was compelled to put forth all his energies to keep his face straight. If he laughed, he was lost. If only his old mates could see him now. The top of Troop A playing at butler! Certainly he would have to write Chuck about it—which he most certainly never did. Still, the ordeal in the dining-room was a severe one. Nothing he attempted was done satisfactorily. Pierre, having in mind Celeste's frivolity and this man's good looks, made the task doubly hard. He hissed "Idiot!" and "Imbecile!" and "Jackass!" as many times as there are knives and forks and spoons at a course dinner. It was when they came to the wines that Pierre became mollified. He was forced to acknowledge that the new groom needed no instructions as to the varying temperatures of calets and burgundies. Warburton longed to get out into the open and yell. It was very funny. He managed, however, on third rehearsal, to acquit himself with some credit. They returned to the kitchen again where they found Celeste nibbling crackers and cheese. She smiled.

"Ha!" The vowel was given a prolonged roll. "So, Mademoiselle, you haf to come and look on eh?"

"Is there any objection, Monsieur?" retorted Celeste in her native tongue, making handsome eyes at Warburton, who was greatly amused.

"Ha! If he was hideous, would you be putting on those ribbons I gave you to wear on Sundays?" snarled Pierre.

"I shall throw them away, Monsieur Flageot, if you dare to talk to me like that. He is handsome and you behaved horribly to that coarse Nanan last Sunday. Because she scrubs the steps of the French embassy you consider her above me, me!"

"You are crazy!" roared Pierre. "You introduced me to her so that you might make eyes at that abominable valet of the secretary!"

Celeste flounced (whatever means of locomotion that is) abruptly from the kitchen. Pierre turned savagely to his protegee.

Go! And eef you look at her, idiot, I haf revenge myself. Oh, I am calm! Bah! Go to zee stables, cattle!" And he rattled his pans at a great rate.

Warburton was glad enough to escape.

"I have brought discord into the land, it would seem."

But his trials were not over. The worst ordeal was yet to come. At five, orders were given to harness the coach-horses to the coupe and have them at the steps promptly at eight-thirty. Miss Annesley had signified her intention of making a call in the city. Warburton had not the slightest suspicion of the destination. He didn't care where it was. It would be dark and he would pass unrecognized. He gave the order no more thought. Promptly at eight-thirty he drove up to the steps. A moment later she issued forth, accompanied by a gentleman in evening dress. It was too dark for Warburton to distinguish his features.

"I am very sorry, Count, to leave you; but you understand perfectly. It is an old school friend of mine whom I haven't seen in a long time; one of the best girl friends I have ever known. I promised to dine with her to-night, but I broke that promise and agreed to spend the evening."

"Do not disturb yourself on my account," replied the man in broken English, which was rather pleasant to the ear. "Your excellent father and I can pass the evening very well."

Karloff! Warburton's chin sank in to his collar and his hands trembled. This man Karloff had very penetrating eyes, even in the dark.

"But I shall miss the music which I promised myself. Ah, if you only knew how adorable you are when you play the violin! I become lost, I forget the world and its sorrows. I forget everything but that mysterious voice which you alone know how to arouse from that little box of wood. You are a great artist, and if you were before the public, the world would go mad over you—as I have."

So she played the violin, thought the unhappy man on the box of the coupe.

"Count, you know that is taboo; you must not talk to me like that," with a nervous glance at the groom.

"The groom embarrasses you?" The count laughed. "Well, it is only a groom, an animal which does not understand these things."

"Besides, I do not play nearly so well as you would have me believe," steering him to safer channels.

"Whatever you undertake, Mademoiselle, becomes at once an art," gallantly. "Good-night!"—and the count saluted her hand as he helped her into the coupe.

How M'sieu Zhammes would have liked to jump down and pommel Monsieur le Comte! Several wicked thoughts surged through our jehu's brain, but to execute any one of them in her presence was impossible.

"Good-night, Count. I shall see you at dinner on Monday."

She would, eh? And her new butler would be on duty that same evening?

Without a doubt. M'sieu Zhammes vowed under his breath that if he got a good chance he would make the count look ridiculous. Not even a king can retain his dignity while a stream of hot soup is trickling down his spinal column. Warburton smiled. He was mentally acting like a school-boy disappointed in love. His own keen sense of the humorous came to his rescue.

"James, to the city, No. — Scott Circle, and hurry." The door closed.

Scott Circle? Warburton's spine wrinkled. Heaven help him, he was driving Miss Annesley to his own brother's house! What the devil was getting into fate anyhow? He swore softly all the way to the Connecticut avenue extension. He made three mistakes before he struck Sixteenth street. Reaching Scott Circle finally, he had no difficulty in recognizing the house. He drew up at the stepping-stone, alighted and opened the door.

"I shall be gone perhaps an hour and a half, James. You may drive around, but return sharply at ten-thirty." Betty ran up the steps and rang the bell. Our jehu did not wait to see the door open, but drove away, hickety-clip. I do not know what a mile hickety-clip is generally made in, but I am rather certain that the civil law demands $25.00 for the same.

The gods were with him this time and no one called him to halt. When he had gone far away from Scott Circle as he dared go, his eye was attracted by a genial cigar sign. He halted a boy to hold the horses and went inside. He bought a dozen cigars and lit one. He didn't even take the trouble to see if he could get the cigars for nothing, there being a penny-in-the-slot machine in one corner of the shop. I am sure that if he had noticed it, it would have enticed him, for the spirit of chance was well-grounded in him, as it is in all army men. But he hurried out, threw the boy a dime, and drove away. For an hour and 20 minutes he drove and smoked and pondered. So she played the violin! played it wonderfully as the count had declared. He was passionately fond of music. In London, in Paris, in Berlin, in Vienna, he had been an unfiring, unfailing patron of the opera. Some night he resolved to listen at the window, providing the window was open. Yes, a hundred times Chuck was right. Any other girl, and this jest might have passed capably; but he wanted the respect of this particular woman, and he had carelessly closed the doors to her regard. She might tolerate him, that would be all. She would look upon him as a hobbledoy.

He approached the curb again in front of the house, and gazed wistfully at the lighted windows. Here was another great opportunity gone. How he longed to dash into the house, confess, and have done with it!

"I wish Chuck was in there. I wish he would come out and kick me good and hearty."

(Chuck would have been delighted to perform the trifling service; and he would not have gone about it with any timidity, either).

"Hang the horses! I'm going to take a peek in at the side window,"—and he slid cautiously from the box. He stole around the side and stopped at one of the windows. The curtain was not wholly lowered, and he could see into the drawing-room. They were there, all of them; and Miss Annesley was holding the baby, which Mrs. Jack had awakened and brought down stairs. He could see by the diffident manner in which Jack was curling the ends of his mustache that they were comparing the baby with him. "The conceited ass!" muttered the self-appointed out-cast; "it doesn't look any more like him than it does like me." Here Miss Annesley kissed the baby, and Warburton hoped that they hadn't washed its face since he performed the same act.

Mrs. Jack disappeared with the hope of the family, and Nancy got out a bundle of photographs. M'sieu Zhammes would have given almost anything he possessed to know what these photographs represented. Crane his neck as he would, he could see nothing. All he could do was to watch. Sometimes they laughed, sometimes they became grave; sometimes they explained, and their guest grew very attentive. Once she even leaned forward eagerly. It was about this time that our jehu chanced to look at the clock on the mantel, and immediately concluded to vacate the premises. It was half after ten. He returned to his box forthwith. (I was going to use the word "alchemy," but I find that it means "cheerful readiness." After what seemed to him an interminable wait, the front door opened and a flood of light blinded him. He heard Nancy's voice.

"I am sorry, Betty, that I can't dine with you on Monday. We are going to Arlington. So sorry."

"I'm not!" murmured the wretch on the box. "I'm devilish glad! Imagine passing soup to one's sister! By George, it was a narrow one! It would have been all over then."

"Well, there will plenty of times this winter," said Betty. "I shall see you all at the Country club Sunday afternoon. Good night, every one. No, no; there's no need of any of you coming to the carriage."

But brother Jack did walk to the door with her; however, he gave not the slightest attention to the groom, for which he was grateful.

"You must all come and spend the evening with me soon," said Betty, entering the carriage.

"That we shall," said brother Jack, closing the door for her. "Good night."

"Home, James," said the voice within the carriage.

I do not know whether or not he slept soundly that night on his stable cot. He never would confess. But it is my private opinion that he didn't sleep at all, but spent a good part of the night out of doors, smoking very black, strong cigars.

Celeste, however, could have told you that her mistress, as she retired, was in a most amiable frame of mind. Once she laughed.

TIES SCARCE IN WEST CANADA.

This Is Due to the Rapid Construction of New Lines.

The rapid construction of new lines of railway in the west, and the large amount of repair work, which must constantly be done, has necessitated the use of vast quantities of railway ties during the present summer, and the fear has been expressed that there might soon be a shortage in this essential of railroad building, says the Winnipeg Free Press.

The nature of the demand for railway ties is strikingly instanced in the gradual disappearance of the vast piles of ties, accumulated during the previous year, by the Canadian Pacific railway at Vermilion on the main line east between the city and Port Arthur.

At the beginning of the year hundreds of thousands of ties were stored in the pits at Vermilion awaiting the time when they would be needed in connection with the development of the various lines in the central west.

At the present time of all these ties, very few remain, and it has become necessary to turn to other sources for the large number required. Fortunately there is no lack of ties of the quality required and the work of construction and improvement goes on uninterrupted.

At the present time the dividing line for the supply of railway ties is at Moose Jaw. The ties needed on all lines east of that point come from the territory between Rat Portage and Fort William. The ties for the territory west of Moose Jaw come chiefly from the Crow's Nest branch, the points of supply being chiefly between Elko and Kootenay. Next year it is hoped that the ties for the Edmonton branch may be secured at Red Deer, the material being rafted down the river to that point from the mountains. At the present time all ties used on the branch, including those used on the Lacombe and Westaskin extension, must be brought all the way from the mills on the Crow's Nest branch, part of the haul being through the mountains, where the cost of transportation is excessive. In addition to the mills between Elko and Kootenay Landing, there are others in the far west, where ties in large numbers are produced, notably the mills of the Columbia River Lumber company, which at Golden, sometimes manufactures as many as 500,000 in a single season.

The ties needed for the railway of Vancouver Island are of course produced on the island, and those of the Prince Albert branch are manufactured at Prince Albert.

The price of good ties has risen steadily during the past 20 years and is still rising. The price is now 50 per cent. higher in the eastern portion of western lines than in the western portion, varying from 32 to 40 cents per tie, between Winnipeg and Port Arthur, and from 22 to 26 cents in the mountains. The lumber used in production is much the same as old or new. Spruce, tamarack and jack pine are the trees chiefly used, in addition to which cedar is employed in British Columbia.

"Have you ever had any experience in handling high grade pottery?" asked the importer of an applicant for a situation.

"No, sir," replied the applicant, "but I can do the work all right."

"Suppose," said the merchant, "you should accidentally break a valuable vase; what would you do?"

"I would put it together carefully," replied the job seeker, "and set it where a wealthy customer would be sure to knock it to pieces again."

"Consider yourself engaged," said the merchant. "And now tell me where you got on to that trick of the trade."

"A few years ago," answered the other, "I was in the 'wealthy customer' class."

Simple Precautions Enough.

In a recent article in a German paper, Herr Paul Speler shows that the spontaneous ignition of zinc dust is out of the question when the material is properly packed. Wetting of the material is also without danger. Ignition and explosion can only occur in the presence of air. The matter is of some importance, inasmuch as steamship owners sometimes refuse to transport this material, and fire underwriters have stringent regulations with respect to it.

Spiders Live in Families.

Spiders are not always solitary creatures. A scientist has lately found in southern India a species of spider that builds spongy nests with outlying webs, each nest being occupied by 40 to 100 spiders, with a large excess of females; sometimes five or six nests are clustered together. The spiders not only live and work together, but they share with one another any prey that may be captured, and some even show maternal affection approaching self-sacrifice.

Coal for a Fast Liner.

Tremendous quantities of coal will be required to run the turbine liner Lusitania's engines. The ship's indicated horsepower is 65,000, which will mean a consumption of not less than 425 tons of steam each hour and a corresponding consumption of 50 tons of coal in the same time. This would work out a total of 1,200 tons of coal a day.

World's Wealth of Coal.

According to the American Manufacturer, the coal deposits of North America are estimated to contain nearly as much as those of Europe, or 481,000,000,000 tons, but even this gigantic figure is completely dwarfed by Asia's wealth of coal, as to which it is at present impossible to make an even approximate estimate.

NORWAY.

Maria L. Chandler of Fryeburg has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles E. Holt, for a week.

Sarah Staples of Auburn will be in the Savings Bank while Cashier George E. Tubbs is away on his vacation.

Winfield Snow, 18 years old, was accidentally shot through the left hand last week while loading a revolver. The ball went diagonally from the palm at the base of the middle finger, to the back of the wrist, where it emerged.

John Hayes, the retired Norway Bakery man, is soon to visit friends in Yarmouth and from there will go to California and possibly to Seattle, Washington. He may locate in the West and he may not stay more than a month he says.

Mrs. Eliza A. Bodell, a sister of the late Major Bickford, has gone to New York to confer with some parties in regard to her mining property in Colorado and Ashland, Oregon. She has been offered a good price for it and thinks she will close it out.

Capt. W. W. Whitmarsh has removed that old landmark, the Whitecomb barn, from his lot on Bridge street.

J. W. Prince and wife recently visited their mother, Mrs. S. B. Prince of Gray. They returned home last week.

Della M. Noyes has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Anna Noyes in Fryeburg, and relatives in Conway, N. H. Hattie Knight went with her.

Porter L. Swift of U. of M. has been elected president of his class for the senior year. He is also president of the Phi Kappa Sigma society.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Adams have been visiting his sister, Mrs. Hiram Abbott, in Andover.

The large engine for the Norway Water Company has arrived. It is a 65 horse power and built by the same parties as were the others. The two put in last winter were not large enough to carry the load, hence the change for a bigger one. It will probably take a couple of weeks to get the engine connected and during this time the steam plant will be run.

A suit of mail is the thing to wear in the woods these days.

CURE CATARRH NOW.

Do Not Wait Until Winter or Disease Will Become Chronic.

Many people in Bethel are beginning to cough and hack with the fall symptoms of disagreeable and offensive catarrh. The tongue is coated in the morning, and they do not sleep well at night on account of disagreeable tickling and dropping at the back of the throat as a result of catarrh. Before the disease becomes chronic they should use Hyomei and get complete freedom from their catarrhal troubles.

If you neglect to treat catarrh when it first comes on, the chances are that it will become so firmly rooted and deep-seated that it will bother you all winter and may become chronic and almost incurable.

The first day's use of Hyomei will show a decided improvement in health, and in a short time there will be no further trouble, and you will be free from catarrh, and coughs and colds will not bother you during the winter.

Remember that Hyomei is sold under an absolute guarantee that it costs nothing unless it cures. W. E. Bosserman has sold a great many Hyomei outfits, every one with his personal guarantee that it costs nothing unless it cures, and he has seen so many remarkable evidences of the curative powers of Hyomei that he is very glad to continue giving this guarantee with every package.

A complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1, extra bottles, if needed, 50 cents.

We Trust Doctors

If you are suffering from impure blood, thin blood, debility, nervousness, exhaustion, you should begin at once with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the Sarsaparilla you have known all your life. Your doctor knows it, too. Ask him about it.

Unless there is daily action of the bowels, no medicine can be absorbed, causing head-ache, dizziness, nausea, depression, and thus preventing the Sarsaparilla from doing its best work. Ayer's Pills are liver pills. Act gently, all vegetables.

Made by J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Also manufacturers of HAIR VIGOR, ACUTE CURE, CHERRY PECTORAL.

We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our medicines.
